The Cairnmillar Institute

The vision of the Cairnmillar Institute is for a mentally healthy and resilient Australia. The Institute is an Australian Health Promotion Charity and non-profit body.

Our role is to continue building a responsive mental health sector through quality education, accessible client services, and evidence-based workforce support. Our work at Cairnmillar is underpinned by our values of compassionate engagement, inclusivity and professionalism and a focus on quality and standards. Connection with trusted partners and community, and a focus on being creative problem-solvers is critical to our business development and will directly enhance our client and student experience. We also aim to strengthen our contribution to the body of evidence-driven research that informs community in practice, and education.

Commitment to Decolonising the Curriculum

The Cairnmillar Institute is founded on the unceded lands of the Wurundjeri Peoples of the Kulin Nation. We pay our respects to their Elders, past and present, and acknowledge their deep, enduring connection to land, waters and community. We acknowledge the richness and value of their accumulated cultural knowledge, spanning vast expanses of time. We extend this respect to all Indigenous Peoples of this continent and all adjacent lands, and to any First Nations Peoples who come across this material.

We are proud to be located in the first Australian State and Territory to enact a Treaty with its First Nations Peoples. We recognise the Gellung Warl, which brings the First Peoples' Assembly of Victoria, the Nginma Ngainnga Wara which brings oversight and accountability, and the Nyerna Yoorrook Telkuna, for truth, healing and reconciliation.

At Cairnmillar, we recognise that the determinants of health and wellbeing for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples have been decimated by colonisation. The healthcare system has been fraught with racism, bias, and discrimination, and this includes the fields of Psychology, Psychotherapy and Counselling. These disciplines have historically ignored the voices and the strengths of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and culture, and their role in healing. This can and must change.

Therefore, the Cairnmillar Institute is committed to decolonising and Indigenising its ways. This is no singular action or strategy, however, or a box that can ever be checked. It involves expanding the curriculum to include Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander ways of knowing, doing and being. It includes embedding genuine consultation and allyship, and reflective and reflexive listening, as we grow and change. It takes uncomfortable realisations and conversations about past and current practices, to offer opportunities for genuine healing and growth within the disciplines. It means expanding the conceptualisation of good mental health to embrace Social and Emotional Wellbeing, into all areas of practice.

All this will take time, deep listening, and profound learning. And at Cairnmillar, we are proud to be a part of this ongoing journey.

Commitment to Lived Experience Inclusion

The Cairnmillar Institute recognises the expertise that comes from lived experience. This includes, but is not limited to, experiences of mental ill-health and recovery, disability, neurodiversity, caring responsibilities, trauma survivorship, alcohol and other drug use, refugee and migration journeys, family and domestic violence, LGBTQIA+ identities, and experiences of racism, poverty or homelessness.

Within psychology, counselling and psychotherapy education, lived-experience knowledge is complementary to professional knowledge and essential to ethical, person-centred, and trauma-informed practice. We are committed to embedding lived-experience leadership, voices and perspectives throughout our teaching, learning, research and placement environments.

Our Principles

1. Nothing about us without us: Lived-experience voices inform design, delivery and review of learning.
2. Safety, consent and choice: We uphold trauma-informed and rights-based frameworks, participation is voluntary; disclosure is never required; psychological and cultural safety underpin all learning environments.
3. Recognition and respect: Lived-experience contributions are acknowledged appropriately in learning activities and materials.
4. Accessibility and inclusion: We will strive to apply universal design and equity principles, provide flexible participation modes, and offer reasonable adjustments.
5. Cultural humility and intersectionality: We recognise the impact of social determinants, culture, identity and power. We actively challenge stigma, discrimination and bias.
6. Evidence and improvement: We evaluate what we do and use student feedback to enhance impact.

What Students Can Expect (Education & Placement)

1. Curriculum & Teaching: Integration of lived-experience perspectives, case materials and guest input across relevant units.
2. Assessment: Opportunities to demonstrate learning through reflexive, values-aligned tasks that uphold safety and dignity.
3. Learning Environment: Clear guidance for respectful dialogue and options for participation that honour autonomy, privacy and cultural safety.
4. Support & Referral: Access to wellbeing, accessibility and academic supports; confidential pathways for raising feedback or concerns.
5. Placement Preparation: Emphasis on person-centred, culturally safe, and trauma-informed practice, with attention to boundaries, consent, reflective practice and lived-experience-informed engagement in diverse settings.

This commitment applies to all Cairnmillar programs and delivery modes. Students are encouraged to provide feedback through unit evaluations and handbook-listed channels so we can continue to learn from our community and improve together, ensuring that lived experience continues to guide our learning environment and collective practices.

Coursework and Research Units

Each of the units of study are detailed below. Please note students must pass all units before being eligible to graduate.

- HON401 (Professional Practice and Professional Ethics)

This unit aims to provide students with a foundation knowledge of professional standards in psychology. The unit guides the student in exploring existing frameworks for thinking about standards and ethics, and highlights ways of accessing, weighting and applying extant legal authority, Codes and Guidelines. The primary objective of HON401 is to provide a forum for students to develop their knowledge about ethical and other standards, as well as their ability to critically apply Guidelines in an appropriate way. The unit aims to achieve this by requiring students to examine a range of ethical and practice dilemmas that are likely to be faced in psychological work, and providing opportunities to practice responding to these by applying systematic, informed, appropriate and reviewable methods. In doing so, HON401 also aims to develop students' reflective abilities, critical thinking, and understanding of the multitudinous responsibilities inherent in contemporary psychological practice.

- HON402 (Research Methods)

The primary aim of this unit is to enable students to analyse and report data at a professional and publishable level. Quantitative methods, using the excellent free program jamovi, which is built upon the market leading statistical program R, will be introduced and practiced. The use of qualitative approaches will also be taught and assessed. At the end of this unit students will be expected to have a data analysis skill set that they can use effectively on their own Honours research (HON455 and HON456) and future data analysis opportunities throughout their careers.

- HON403 (Psychological Assessment)

The aim of this unit is to assist students to understand issues relating to best practice in psychological assessment and testing. There are three components to this unit. Firstly, the unit includes an emphasis on psychometric issues (e.g., norms, reliability, validity), and the theoretical and empirical bases underpinning test construction, implementation, and interpretation across populations. The unit also includes a focus on beginning skills in basic assessment strategies, including observation, developing rapport, interpersonal communication, and interviewing. Finally, the unit aims to include beginning skills in case formulation and mental health assessment, as well as exploring specific psychological tests commonly utilised, such as cognitive and personality testing. Relevant ethical, contextual, and cultural issues are also addressed in this unit.

- HON404 (Evidence-Based Practice and Practice-Based Evidence)

This unit focuses on the knowledge, techniques and interventions associated with evidence-based psychological practice. The aim of the unit is to introduce students to the scientist-practitioner model and the concept of what constitutes evidence-based practice (EBP) in psychology. Students will be introduced to a range of commonly used interventions and develop their abilities to critically evaluate the literature and scientific evidence supporting a range of psychological treatment interventions for various psychological disorders. In addition, students will also focus on how client characteristics (e.g., culture, ethnicity, gender, sexuality, age, and religion) may impact treatment and the need to consider these factors in EBP, as well as reflect on their own characteristics that may impact treatment. Other issues such as the therapeutic relationship, therapist skills and client acceptance of treatment will also be discussed. The aim of this unit is the development of the knowledge and skills required for best practice and quality assurance in applied psychological practice.

- HON407 (Developmental Psychopathology Across the Lifespan)

This unit will focus on important frameworks (e.g., the biopsychosocial model), theories (e.g., psychodynamic and behavioural), concepts (e.g., risk and protective factors), and processes (e.g., diagnoses and classification) central to the study of developmental psychopathology. Within the broad context of a lifespan perspective covering normative development from 'the cradle to the grave', particular emphasis will be given to the importance of the interplay between biological, psychological, and social/cultural factors (i) for understanding how psychopathologies may manifest; and (ii) gain insight into areas for treatment.

- HON455 and HON456 (Research Thesis 1 and Research Thesis 2)

The Research Thesis Units comprise of HON455 (Semester 1) and HON456 (Semester 2), with the overall aim to develop student research skills. HON456 builds on the research undertaken by the student in HON455.

In HON455, students plan their research project; review relevant literature, consider ethical issues related to their project; prepare a research proposal; and engage in structured scholarly dialogue about their research. Depending on the timeline of the research project, students may also be involved with data collection (where relevant), data analysis and interpretation of findings. The student is required to engage in reflexivity throughout the research process and work towards the preparation of an Empirical Report to be submitted in HON456.

HON456 requires the student to continue with the research project, including data collection, data analysis, and interpretation of the findings. The student is required to prepare and submit an Empirical Report, written in the form of an article prepared for submission to a journal and written in APA style. Students will also be required to present their research findings to an audience including Cairnmillar academics.

Students should also refer to the relevant Unit Outlines located on Canvas

The referencing and format for all assignments must be in APA 7 style. Please see APA Style Referencing. See also Assessment Style Guides and Formatting on myCMI.

Assessment Grades & Records

Final results for each unit will be calculated, then published on the Paradigm Enrolment Portal by the relevant results publication date. The marks for your final assessment will be withheld until after the release of your final marks.

See myCMI for information on results publication.

Extensions

An extension may be granted up to 14 calendar days for assignments where there is evidence of unexpected disruptions in the student's available work time. Extensions must be applied for and approved in accordance with the Assessment Policy and Procedures and any other published procedures found on the faculty website.

Applications must be made via the appropriate form before the due date and submitted to the Unit Coordinator. An extension is valid only after it has been approved by the Unit Coordinator.

For students with an ongoing or short term health, injury or disability that impacts their ability to study, academic support, including extensions, may be available by registering with the Learning Equity Office. For further information please click here.

See myCMI for more information on how to apply for an assignment extension.

Special Consideration

Special consideration may be granted in situations where an extension is not possible, such as an exam or in-class work that has been missed, or you need an extension beyond 2 weeks. You should first discuss your situation with your Course Coordinator before applying. Please see the Assessment Policy and Procedures found on the faculty website for more information. Please see myCMI for how to apply for special consideration.

Word Limit

Students must adhere to the word limits provided in Unit Outlines and Assessment Guides. Please refer to your Unit Outlines on Canvas for information regarding word limits for each assessment task. There is a 10% leeway on all word limits in which no penalties apply. Exceeding the word limit+10% will result in a penalty of 10% of the total assessment mark. For example, for an assessment with 1000 words worth 20 marks, a student can write up to 1100 words without penalty. However, the student will incur a 10% penalty of the total assessment mark (10% of 20 marks = 2 mark penalty) if they write 1101 words.

Late Submissions

The penalty for late submissions is 5% per day of the total assessment mark (including weekends and non-business days), for a maximum of seven (7) days (i.e., maximum late penalty deduction possible is 35%).

Work handed in more than one week late will not be marked and a fail result will be recorded. No assignment will be accepted once the results for that assignment have been published.

Tasks that are required to be completed and/or submitted in-class, such as class presentations must be submitted on the date of the class presentation unless a student has been granted special consideration. The penalty for late submission or non-submission of in-class tasks is usually 100% of the mark.

See also: Late Assessment Submissions on myCMI.

Samples of Work

Samples of student work may be taken for purposes of course accreditation and benchmarking. In all cases anonymity will be preserved. If you object to your work being copied for this purpose you must advise the Unit Coordinator when submitting assignments.

Recognition of Prior Learning

Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) is a process where a student may be granted credit or partial credit towards a qualification in recognition of previous study, skills or experience. RPL can only be granted for units prior to the commencement of your course

See myCMI for more information on how to apply for RPL or credit transfer.
